NEW POLICY EXPECTED

Encourages Private Financing of Project; May Favor Tariff Revision

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Copyright 1926, by Post, Pub. Co.
Washington.—Enough straws have appeared to show that the wind is blowing in the direction of action by the administration on the agricultural problem.

For the advisors of President Coolidge have convinced him that the time has come for the administration to offer and get back of a practical plan for the adjustment of the farmer's unbalanced position with reference to industry. The significant announcement by Secretary Jardine of the department of agriculture that the farmers of the west want tariff revision and the declaration by Secretary Hoover that he has in mind a plan for the private financing of farm operations may be coupled together as the beginning of a new policy. The elections of 1928 are coming soon and the administration is being threatened in the congressional elections by all kinds of talk of political revolt from the west. Entirely apart from the political aspect, there has been abundant evidence that the export surplus problem of the American farmer can no longer be ignored any more than his demand for a lower tariff on the articles which he is compelled to buy.

WANT PRIVATE FUNDS
Broadly speaking, the McNary-Haugen plan has no objection to it from the administration viewpoint. It is handled with private funds instead of public money. In other words, if the principle in it is sound and there is no great risk of financial loss, then private capital may be induced to organize the farmers into one huge corporation to market the surplus. The administration would do all in its power to encourage private capital even to the point of inviting keymen in finance to meet the president and members of his cabinet and discuss the whole plan. The proponents of the McNary-Haugen plan have always felt that government authority had to be back of any arrangement that is set up so that the farmer will be compelled to accept certain receipts instead of cash in part payment for his products at the mill, but it is believed some other device may be found to overcome this difficulty and make it workable even though privately managed.

REFUSAL WILL WEAKEN CASE
The point is that in the face of persistent argument from the west about an equalization fee in the marketing of surplus agricultural products, the administration is compelled to offer an alternative and if private capital should finally reject the McNary-Haugen plan, giving its reason for refusing the risk, it then is believed the case for government financing will be weakened and the western leaders will be in a better mood to accept a compromise plan.

The evident willingness of Mr. Jardine to consider tariff revision and the frequent utterances from visitors at Paul Smith's concerning the need for tariff revision to satisfy the west is considered significant, for it may mean that the administration will not oppose efforts to revise the tariff if proposed at the next session of congress. It is to be a short session anyhow and the tariff problem, like the McNary-Haugen bill may benefit by continued debate.

FAIL TO LEARN
NAME OF BANK
BOMB HURLERFanatic Who Brought Death
to Policeman and Self Goes Unknown to Grave

Pittsburg, Pa.—(AP)—The fanatic who brought death to himself and a policeman, and injury to a score of persons when he exploded a bomb in the Farmers Deposit Savings bank carried the secret of his identity into the grave so far as police could learn today.

One identification regarded as almost certain—that the man was a fanatic escaped from a local hospital for the insane—was discarded when relatives declared the bomber was not of their family. They viewed the badly mangled body at the city morgue where hundreds have visited in a vain attempt to identify the man. A belt buckle on which was engraved the letter "E" was the single bit of evidence police had upon which to work. The bomber, a man of foreign appearance dressed in working clothes, entered the bank Tuesday and presented a demand for $2,000 "or I'll blow up the bank" when George C. Ortmann, a special bank policeman, approached to arrest him, he placed a black satchel upon the floor and gave it a kick. A violent explosion followed. The bomber was instantly killed and Ortmann so badly injured he died soon after he was taken to a hospital. Bank officials after an investigation fixed the damage to the 24-story building at upwards of $150,000.

Denies That Duty Is Placed
Chiefly on Articles Used by Farmer

Saginaw, Mich.—(AP)—Criticisms of the workings of the Fordney-McCumber tariff law relative to alleged high duty rates on articles chiefly used by farmers are wholly unjustified, former Congressman Joseph W. Fordney declared in an interview published here today.

In answer to complaints that farmers are suffering from the high rate of duty, Mr. Fordney, who was chairman of the ways and means committee when the law was framed, said any one sufficiently interested to examine the bill will find that most farm necessities are on the free list.

"Leather goods of all kinds—excepting fancy articles—such as boots, shoes and harnesses—are on the free list. All kinds of farm machinery and vehicles used on the farm are on the free list and nearly all kinds of building materials are on the free list," he said. "There is a small duty on lime and cement, but none on brick and lumber. Barbed wire also is on the free list."

Mexico City.—(AP)—Since there are no immediate prospects of settlement of the religious controversy the economic boycott called by the League for the Defense of Religious Freedom is increasing the gloom in business circles.

Reports from some sections of the country indicate that the slump in business is acute. Even in Mexico City decreases in the sales of commodities except those considered absolutely necessities are being noticed more and more.

The Catholic episcopate, with the assistance of attorneys, is working upon a memorial to be presented to the new congress which convenes Sept. 1. He maintained throughout a lengthy examination that he is not involved in the Madison and Shorewood robberies this summer. Sweetheart Of Poisoned
Girl Wanted To Cure Her

Cleveland, O.—(AP)—The mania for youthful sweethearts for administering medicines is seen by authorities as the only plausible reason for the death Sunday of pretty Dorothy Kirk, 21-year-old stenographer who, it is believed, died as a result of overdoses of poisons given her by Emil Blanesec, 21, her suitor. This theory has gained weight as the questioning of the youth had delved further into the strange relations of the pair and as examination of the girl's stomach by Coroner A. P. Hammond and City Chemist Harold J. Knapp has proceeded.

Blanesec, according to police, has admitted prescribing medicines for the girl but is adamant in his refusal to disclose what they were. So numerous were the pills and other medicines taken by the girl that chemists working under Dr. Knapp have pro-

FIND MISSING
ARMY AIRMANAviator in Pennsylvania Hos-

ter Accident

Bellefonte, Pa.—(AP)—Lieut. Cyrus K. Bettis, army flying ace missing since Monday was found alive in the Seven Sisters mountains today and is now in the Centre-co hospital here in a serious but not critical condition. The flyer's left leg is broken below the knee, his skull is fractured in two places and he has severe lacerations on the face and head.

The army officer owes his life to his grit. Buried deep in the thick forest where no one could find him or his wrecked plane, Lieutenant Bettis crawled for five and a half hours through the tangled underbrush until he came to a roadway where he was later found by two state highway employees.

Lieutenant Bettis, with two other planes left the Sequel-Centennial grounds in Philadelphia on Monday for Selfridge field in Michigan to prepare for the air races in Philadelphia next month. The other flyers were Lieut. John J. Williams and Luther S. Smith. They stopped at Middletown, Pa., near Harrisburg, and later took off for Cleveland. Near Lewis- town the aviators ran into a thick fog Monday afternoon and that was the last seen of Lieut. Bettis until he was found. The other army officers reached Selfridge field safely.

Marked down while he was about to board a bus, Mark had no chance to escape the driver of the car, according to witnesses. Carl Kleinheinz, clerk for the Northland transportation Co., who was riding in the front seat of the bus which Mark intended to board saw Mark get hit by a car which passed the bus as it slowed down.

Later Kleinheinz took a bottle of liquor from the driver of the death car. No effort was made to detain the driver, who said his name was Hanson. Mark leaves a widow and five children.

ARREST TWO SUSPECTS AS BANK ROBBERSFormer Appleton Men, Recently in Prison, Held in Wisconsin Jail

With the arrest of two men at St. Croix Falls late Tuesday, authorities believe that the daylight robberies of two Outagamie-co banks have been solved.

The men gave their names as John McFarland, 43 years old, and John Albrecht, 31. Deputy sheriffs of Polk-co became suspicious of the large touring car the men were driving and stopped them. A search of the automobile, they say, revealed a supply of rifles, shotguns and ammunition sufficient to stock a small arsenal.

Both McFarland and Albrecht formerly lived in Appleton and District Attorney John A. Lonsdorf declared Wednesday that they probably are the same two men who were sentenced to federal prison terms for the robbery of the Dale postoffice November, 1922 after their arrest by Appleton police.

For some time, according to reports from St. Croix and Minneapolis, the suspects have been living in underworld haunts in Minneapolis.

TWO BANKS ROBBED
On June 2, last, two men entered the bank at Black Creek, forced Mrs. G. H. Peters, assistant cashier, to remain at her desk under threat of a revolver and covered Miss Meta Schneider, a bookkeeper while they made a leisurely search of the vault. Only finding slightly more than $1,500, the bandits tried to force the women to open the safe.

Assuring them that she did not know the combination Mrs. Peters finally convinced the robbers that they had scooped up all the cash possible and they departed in a highpowered car.

Less than a month later, June 30, apparently the same two men entered the First National Bank at Dale and while one threatened Henry Schulte, cashier, and Miss Viola Beck, bookkeeper, with a revolver, the other walked into the bank enclosure and forced them to enter the vault where he locked them in.

Taking all the cash in sight the highwaymen left with more than $4,500, although they overlooked $2,500 which had been hidden in fear of robbers.

A. M. Devoursney, Milwaukee, chief of detectives of the American Bankers' Protective association arrived in Appleton early Wednesday and entered a conference immediately with Mr. Lonsdorf, witnesses of the robberies and other authorities. For several weeks Mr. Devoursney has prosecuted a search for McFarland and Albrecht. It was stated.

ISSUE WARRANTS
John Doe warrants were issued by the district attorney carrying a specific charge of highway robbery of the Dale bank.

Shortly after noon Mr. Devoursney Police Chief George T. Prim, Mrs. Peters and Miss Beck, accompanied by M. A. Schuh, vice president of the Dale bank and a director in the Black Creek Institution, left Appleton to attempt to identify the suspects and return them to Outagamie-co for trial.

The district attorney of Polk-co assured the authorities here that the men would be turned over for prosecution by Mr. Lonsdorf, it was requested.

The party left Appleton in one automobile but will bring the wanted men back in the touring car in which they were arrested at St. Croix Falls. Chief Prim accompanied the party in the absence of Sheriff Peter G. Schwartz who was out of town on official business and was not expected to return until after noon.

The return trip, according to present plans, will not be attempted before Thursday morning, Mr. Lonsdorf announced.

Cambridge, Mass.—(AP)—Harvard university mourned today the man who for 40 years directed its destinies. President Emeritus Charles W. Eliot. University buildings had closed their doors for days and activities were at a standstill for the hour of funeral in Appleton Chapel where often in life he had worshipped.

Distinguished colleagues of Dr. Eliot represented Harvard. President A. Lawrence Lowell, a cousin of the former president and his successor, was absent in Europe.

The Rev. Samuel A. Eliot, only surviving son, accompanied the body here from Northeast Harbor.

BENITO HAS HARD TIME WITH FEMALE DRESS LAW

Paris.—(AP)—Benito Mussolini, Italy's Fascist premier, has met his Waterloo, or his Marne as some prefer to describe it, if the French dress-making trade can be trusted for the assertion. They declare that Mussolini's attempt to extend his dictatorship to what the women of his country shall wear is a more difficult undertaking than the suppression of the Mafia society in Sicily. None of the dressmakers believes the decree will succeed in making modern women of his country let their hair grow long or lengthen their gowns, when fashion demands shortness in each. The fear is expressed however that Mussolini may be able to cut down materially the 300,000,000 lire Italian women are credited with spending annually abroad mostly in Paris for clothes.

Quality vs. Quantity

Bigness and high value do not go hand in hand. A small mountain of iron would not be worth as much as a grain of radium. By the same token a small ad with the right system behind it brings greater results than one many times larger but without the right backing.

And the right system that produces results of high value is that of the Post-Crescent classified section.

The Kimberly Second Hand Store, Kimberly, Wisconsin, runs a small ad announcing that they buy and sell all kinds of second hand furniture—and the manager says people from Appleton, Brillion, Little Chute, Black Creek and Kaukauna have responded—directly resultant from his ad.

"You can't judge an ad by its size" says he. "But the right system and the right paper are what count."

YOU, too, will get results for YOUR business by just calling 543.

Mob Battles Near Star's
Resting Place

PREMIER SENDS WREATH

Girls and Women Under 30
Most Numerous in Crush of 50,000 Persons

New York.—(AP)—The body of Rudolph Valentino, great lover of the screen, Wednesday was guarded by police and blackshirts Fascist because of the pressing throngs that have tried to view it resulting in scores of injuries.

Police estimated that 50,000 persons, mostly women and girls, blocked Broadway in front of the undertaking establishment where the star lies in state, and that more than 100 were injured in the crush Tuesday.

Two plate glass windows were shattered and several times mounted policemen were driven back by the crowd. Reserves were called out, and 135 patrolmen and ten mounted policemen were required to keep order.

"The crowd has the true mob spirit," said Police Captain Hammill. "I never saw anything like it in 20 years on the force. So many of them were so morbidly curious that they would go home with their hats and other wearing apparel after some order was restored. Police picked up 28 shoes. Many of the injured were given first aid treatment in the undertakers' establishment."

CROWD OF YOUNG WOMEN
Most of the women in the crowd seemed to be under 30. Scores of the men were clothed or had their hair dressed in imitation of Valentino. At times there was an air of hilarity in the crowd. Crowds remained even after the establishment closed at midnight. Police continued on guard. It was announced that the body would be on view again again Wednesday and Thursday from 9 o'clock to 11 the morning until midnight.

After midnight ten men wearing the blackshirt of the Italian fascist arrived, and two of them went on guard, the others arranging to relieve them at intervals. A huge wreath also arrived labeled "From Benito Mussolini."

FUNERAL SERVICES MONDAY
Funeral services will be held Monday, but the place of burial is yet to be decided. Valentino's brother, Alberto Guglielmi, is on the way from France. Pola Negri, who announced some time ago that she expected to marry Valentino, and S. George Ullman, his manager, desire that he be buried in Hollywood. Miss Negri hopes to reach New York in time for the funeral services.

Among the honorary pall bearers Monday will be Mayor Walker, Will Hays, Adolph Zukor, Marcus Loew and Hiram Abrams. Services will be at St. Malachi's Catholic church. Great crowds thronged Broadway during the forenoon and passed slowly before his bier. The crowds were more orderly today.

BROTHER IS ON WAY
London.—(AP)—The White Star line today announced that Alberto Guglielmi, brother of Rudolph Valentino, will embark for New York on the Homeric at Cherbourg Wednesday night.

GIRL IS KILLED WHEN LOCOMOTIVE HITS CAR

Milwaukee.—(AP)—Florence Tesch, 23 years old, was killed early today when the automobile in which she was riding was struck by a railroad train. Robert Gebhardt, the driver, Miss Gebhardt and "B. W. Blockner" were slightly injured. The machine was pushed in an upright position for nearly 300 yards before the locomotive was brought to a stop. Miss Tesch was sitting on the side nearest the locomotive and was crushed to death against the steering wheel.

FAIL TO BAR "MESSIAH" FROM UNITED STATES

New York.—(AP)—Enemies of J. Krishnamurti, the youthful theosophist Meessiah, have protested his entry into this country, alleging moral turpitude. The New York Herald-Tribune says today. Complaints against him have been reviewed by Immigration Commissioner Day at Ellis Island and the paper says, but were rejected on grounds of insufficient evidence. The names of those opposing the landing today of the young Hindu from the liner Majestic were not disclosed nor were the specific charges against him.

BLAINE REPEATS ATTACK AGAINST COURT QUESTION

Governor Says It Has Not Prevented Any War in Last Five Years

Kiel (P)—The world Court has been in existence for five years, but it has prevented no war. Governor John J. Blaine declared in an address here Wednesday.

"I am opposed to the World Court and to the League of Nations," the governor said, "because in order to enforce the decrees of the World Court, it means the conscription of American boys to wage war for European aggrandizement."

Declaring Senator Lenroot voted "no" on the Moses reservation to prohibit enforcing the court decrees by war, Governor Blaine said:

"Now I desire to call your attention to the relation of this World Court, for which my opponent stands and is pleading, to the issue of war."

"The court has been in existence nearly five years. It has prevented no war. France sent her soldiers into the Ruhr, in violation of the treaty of Versailles. Where was the World Court? France, organizer for war, occupied the Ruhr under the shadow and in the silence of the World Court. "Damascus was bombarded by the Christian allied governments, and Syria was exploited, her commerce closed, and the morality of the Syrian people debauched by the military camps of France; all this under the eyes and in the silence of judges of the World Court."

"Great Britain, with her preponderance of power in the League, stole from Turkey the rich oil fields of Mosul, with the practical sanction of the World Court."

"France ravished the Rhine, a peaceable, pastoral people and the judges of the World Court sat in silence while the blood of these innocent men and women and babes was shed in torrents in the unsuccessful effort to preserve their rights to independence and the sanctity of their homes."

"Europe, Asia and Africa have been an armed camp and there has been scarcely a cessation of war since the adoption of the League of Nations and its World Court."

FLOODED ROADS CAUSE MOTORISTS TO DETOUR

Appleton-motorists who visited Wisconsin Rapids, Stevens Point and other places along the Wisconsin river within the last few days were forced to make numerous detours because of deep water standing in the roads. Between Wisconsin Rapids and Stevens Point the water was two feet deep in places, they said. At one point at the former city where the river "usually can be crossed by 'stepping stones,'" a miniature Niagara raged over the rocks. Papermill felts were placed along the river bank to prevent the washing away of large quantities of valuable soil and the spoiling of beauty spots on the banks.

Mr. and Mrs. George E. Mader, 708 N. Oneida-st. and daughters, Kathryn Ann and Mary Frances, returned Tuesday morning from Antico, where they have spent the past week visiting relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Frank and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Miller motored to Wisconsin Rapids Sunday where they attended the picnic given by the Consolidated waterpower and Paper Co.

PAY BACK MONEY RAISED TO BUILD GOLF CLUB HOUSE

Only 31 More Memberships
Can Be Sold in Golf Association

The syndicated fund raised last year by the Winneconne Land Co. to build the new locker house at Butte des Morts Country club has been paid up, according to a report made at the meeting of the land company directors Tuesday evening. Increasing the price of stock in the company from $250 to $500 was considered but no action was taken. Action probably will be taken at the next meeting.

The report showed that 18 new members have been added to the land company this year and that 31 memberships still can be sold before the 400 membership limit is reached. The company has 350 shares but some stock has been bought back and will be re-sold.

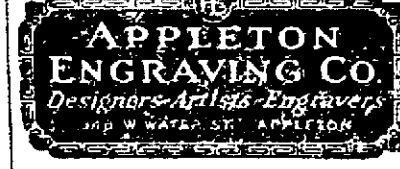

Instructions were issued to the greens committee to make minor improvements on the course. The course will be lengthened to meet the requirements of the United States Golf association. On hole No. 13, the tee will be moved back 10 yards, it was reported.

FARMER HIT BY TRAIN RECOVERS AT HOSPITAL

The condition of Adam C. Kohl, R. R. 3, Appleton, who was injured when the car he was driving was struck by a Chicago and Northwestern train Sunday afternoon, was much improved Tuesday, according to the attending physician. The injured man will be confined to St. Elizabeth hospital for two or three weeks.

Kohl was injured when his car stalled on the railroad crossing on S. Bidder-ave. It was thought that Kohl, believing he could start the engine, delayed too long and the car was struck by the train before he had a chance to jump. The train struck the rear of the car. Mr. Kohl suffered two fractured ribs, severe bruises and several minor cuts.

Record Crowd At Seymour Fair Tuesday Afternoon

W. F. WINSEY
The largest crowd ever seen on the grounds on the opening day attended the Seymour fair Tuesday afternoon and found the barns, stables, pens, coops, tents, exposition buildings and grounds filled with high class exhibits. The free acts before the grand stand were entertaining, the speed events hotly contested and thrills from the performances following each other in rapid succession.

A fully accoutered horse and rider, a richly painted house, and a large United States flag released from bombs, hurled to dizzy heights and bursting with deafening explosions were waited in their course downward by a gentle breeze to the grand stand where the flag, supported by a parachute, caught on the eaves of the building and waved a message of good cheer to the plaudits of the vast audience. This caused the first thrill. A Texas steer, breaking away from his keeper and plunging through fences, marshes and creeks to the distant timber in a wild dash for freedom with several mounted cowboys from Green's Society circus in hot chase armed with lariets, furnished the next thrill. Then came a horse and rider clearing an automobile loaded with passengers. A rider jumping from the back of a pursuing horse to the back of a frightened bounding Texas steer, and afterward throwing the steer to the ground from daredevil stunts under on and over racing horses and from acts on trapeze. In mid air, kept the attention of the spectators fixed all afternoon.

The speed events included a 221 pace and a 218 pace. In the first of these eight races eight horses started. Clinton B. Br. G., owned by W. A. Behrend, Plymouth, won the race in three straight heats. Second money went to Rhea Gano, Br. M., owned by A. J. Claire, W. DePere, and third money to Red Rice, Jr., Br. G., owned by Ed. J. Olson, Sturgeon Bay. The best time made in this race was 2:18. It took five heats to decide the 218 pace. Five horses started. Delma H. won the first, fourth and fifth heats, and first money. Second money went to Jimmy Nash, S. G., owned by W. H. Lapshire, Cooperstown, N. D., and third money to Greenwood Boy, S. G., owned by George Storur, Green Bay. P. A. Bishop, Plattville, acted as starter.

GIRLS COMPLETE SWIMMING TESTS

Red Cross Life Saving Tests
Are Passed by Six Appleton Campers

Six Appleton girls who started Red Cross Life Saving tests at Camp Onaway, girl's camp conducted under the auspices of the Appleton Woman's club, completed their tests Tuesday afternoon at the stone quarry swimming pool. Miss Margaret Murphy was the only girl to pass the senior life guard tests. The following passed the junior tests: Misses Janice Reese, Dorothy Colvin, Lucille Knapp, Elizabeth Meyer and Margaret Keller.

The girls were unable to finish their tests at camp because of inclement weather. The tests were completed under the direction of Miss Edith Wright. The girls had to have at least six hours preliminary preparation and practice before beginning the tests. They had to disrobe and swim 100 yards in deep water, surface dive in 6 to 8 feet of water, recover various objects three times and a 10 pound weight once, and demonstrate the correct approach and head carry in a 30 foot swim. They also had to demonstrate the correct approach and the cross chest and hair or arm lock carry in a 30 foot swim, and demonstrate the tread swimmer's carry for 30 feet with a 60 foot approach. They had to demonstrate the method for releasing the double grip on one wrist, both left and right, demonstrate the release of the front strangle hold and the back strangle hold, both right and left, and give a minute and a half demonstration of the prone pressure method of resuscitation.

The girls receive a membership card, an emblem for their bathing suits, and an unnamed pin. The senior tests are somewhat similar to the

A large touring car owned by Sheldon Stammer, route 5, Appleton delayed traffic for some time about 6:30 Tuesday night when it stalled on the corner of College-ave and Appleton-st. The springs in the rear end had shifted, according to a mechanic who was called to make repairs, and the automobile would not move.

COURT ORDERS BRIEFS IN HORTONVILLE SUIT

After hearing testimony for several hours Tuesday in the case of Outagamie-co. against the village of Hortonville in which the county seeks $1,445 while the village contends an indebtedness of $800 for construction assistance in building a bridge in 1922. Circuit Judge Edgar V. Werner ordered the attorneys involved to file briefs and stated he would take the matter under advisement.

No date was set for filing of briefs. One of the principle points at issue was whether state aid funds are available in the dispute. The county contended that no assistance can be had in this instance.

DECREASE AGE LIMIT FOR JUNIOR GOLF PLAYERS

Children of members of the Butte des Morts Country club, between the ages of 12 and 21 will be eligible for junior memberships in the club. It was decided Tuesday evening at a meeting of the board of directors. The former minimum age limit was 15. Several minor changes in the links which will increase the length of the holes, suggested by the greens committee, were approved. The changes will be made in the near future. A report showed that the club's links has been used so much that there has been a shortage of caddies most of the season. Steps will be taken to secure more caddies.

What Are You Studying?

HISTORY, mathematics, literature, languages, science? In your whole curriculum, there is no lesson more important than how to guard your health. Long after your hard-won French vocabulary is forgotten, you will be putting into daily practice—if you are wise—the rules of health.

School work, with its continual studying, its sports, dances, and social affairs demands a vigorous body. How discouraging it is to miss the good times. And sometimes, how unnecessary.

First of all, then, learn the lesson of health. Find out what fresh air will do, exercise, sleep and proper food. Many school girls have learned that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped them to find the health they needed and has made their school days happier.

"I gave my fifteen year old daughter, Louise, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it did her a wonderful lot of good. She had been out of school for four months. I read the advertisements of the Vegetable Compound, and since she has taken it she has improved and has gone back to school again. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to other mothers with girls who are not as strong as they should be."

Stop Crime At Home, School, Says Salvation Army Leader

"The home, the school and the church are the places where most crime can be stopped at the source," according to Colonel William G. Anderson, divisional commander of the Salvation Army in Wisconsin and Upper Michigan, who was recently asked how crime could be effectively reduced. He gave the following points which, according to his experience, would help prevent crime:

"1. The Salvation Army notes increasing crime in periods of industrial depression. Therefore, a careful distribution of labor, and stabilizing of industry is important. Early training which enables people to earn a living is necessary. The Army's industrial home is principally a tidying over home for the man who is down, but must eat and sleep.

"2. Our relief officers visit many homes where the environment for the children is bad. The family spirit is not harmonious, and the home is not a place for them to enjoy. Respect for parents and respect for school law naturally develops into respect for civil law, therefore, every organization working toward family rehabilitation is stopping crime at its source. The parents in every home every day are influencing their children for either good or evil, and their responsibility in the sight of God and the law is great.

"3. Family home conditions drive many young people to seek pleasure elsewhere. Their employment of leisure hours, whether they be at the playground, parks, movies, dance, tennis, pool rooms, or churches, will determine very largely their mental attitude and their future.

"A very careful inspection and oversight of places of congregation are necessary. Wholesome organized outdoor sport is a good mind cleaner.

KEEP CARS OFF OF AVENUE AT NIGHT

Street Department Says
Sweeper Can't Do Efficient
Job

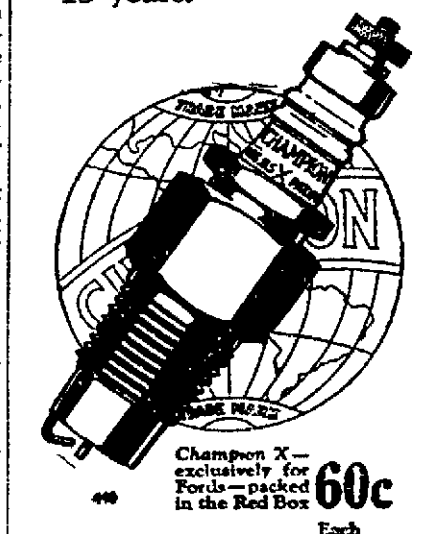

The city street department has issued a protest against parking automobiles along College-ave during the night time, according to R. F. Hackworth, city street commissioner.

The reason for the complaint is that the city crew finds it impossible to do a good sweeping job on the streets when cars are parked all night. The sweeper starts out at 2 o'clock in the morning, and finishes its work about 7, making a five hour run from Richmond-st on the west end of the avenue to Lawrence chapel on the east end. Night is the only time that the sweeper is able to operate, and its operators state that they are forced to keep several feet away from the curbing on account of parked automobiles.

Officials of the department request that cars during the five hours the sweeper is at work be parked on the side streets, if they must be parked in the downtown section at all. In case this request is not complied with, the department probably will take the matter before the city council.

as well as a body builder. Daily work of the right kind, in the right quantity, and in the right environment is invaluable, to growing boys and girls. The young people who learn to work are not headed toward criminality. An idle brain is the devil's workshop, and too much leisure time is extremely bad for youth.

"5. Physical and mental handicaps are responsible for many crimes. The correctional work done with boys and girls will reduce crime in their ranks in later years. The Salvation Army converted 10,382 men and women in prison in the United States last year, but how much better it would be to have the homes, schools and churches so influence the lives of boys and girls that they would not have to be sent there.

"6. The present inmates of many of our prisons are repeaters. This shows a great need for improvement in our criminal law and the method of operating prisons. The term reformatory in many cases is a misnomer. When a man is still a criminal at heart, society is not safe to have him turned loose just because a certain number of months or years, have elapsed.

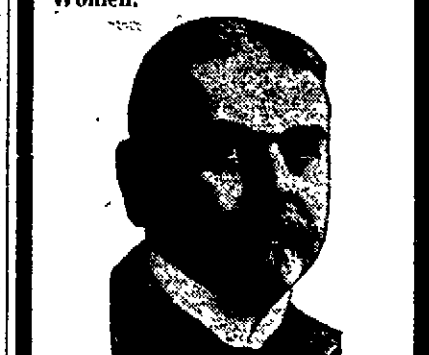

"The home, the school, and the church are the places where most crime can be stopped at the source, and lives saved for respected and useful citizenship. Christian homes are not only the foundation of this great nation, but must also be the vital saving influence for all time."

ANOTHER REVOLUTION

General Condylis, former minister of war of Greece, with the support of the army and navy has terminated a successful revolution deposing the dictatorship of General Pangalos. How long the new government will last is a very uncertain thing for Greece is an uncertain country.

During the last seven or eight years Greece, Portugal and Mexico have been running a neck and neck race to see how often they can change their form of government. Greece is one day a monarchy, the next a republic and the next it falls into the hands of a dictator. While there are many causes that have some effect upon these constant changes in government, the principal cause is the lack of patience and forbearance among one class of people with another. First there will be a peasants' uprising because tillers of the soil conceive that they are not receiving fair treatment at the hands of the government, and when they get control almost invariably they treat other classes unfairly. After a while the workers revolt and take over the government but as soon as they are in the saddle they act with an equal degree of oppression on others. By and by business gets tired of being crushed, organizes a successful revolt, appoints a dictator and immediately tries to make up its losses by sitting heavily upon both peasants and workers. Thus the country goes around the fatal circle and never gets anywhere. No government can long endure that does not make a strong effort to give all classes of people a fifty-fifty break.

THE HILL WHERE MEN GROW YOUNG

Have you ever heard of Cardiff Hill? It rears above Hannibal, Mo., overlooking the Mississippi River, and on it they have just unveiled a bronze, life-size statue of two bad boys and presented it to the youth of the United States.

You probably know those boys. They never lived in the sense that they "felt dawn and saw sunset glow." They dwelt in the pages of books, but they live yet in our hearts. They are, to those of us who have spent happy hours laughing at them—and perhaps crying a little over them—the eternal symbols of American boyhood.

Tom Sawyer and Huck Finn! What finer memorial could be erected to Mark Twain than this statue of his imperishable characters in the very town where the famous humorist-author spent his own boyhood days?

On Cardiff Hill, meeting place of Tom Sawyer and his gang; where Tom fought and played and dreamed of finding buried treasure; where the moon one night looked down on a murderous knife-thrust by "Injun Joe" and two small boys hurried away from the graveyard as fast as frightened legs would carry them.

Mark Twain never forgot that hill. In "Tom Sawyer," he says, "The locust trees were in bloom and the fragrance of the blossom filled the air. Cardiff Hill, beyond the village and above it, was green with vegetation, and it lay just far enough away to seem a Delectable Land, dreamy, reposeful and inviting."

In his autobiography, written long years after "Tom Sawyer," he says, "I can remember the drowsy and inviting summer sounds that used to float in through the open window from the distant Boy Paradise, Cardiff Hill."

Mark Twain himself once ran through the village streets of Hannibal, played on the little islands in the Mississippi that to Tom and Huck were pirate lairs, and romped in barefoot abandon, amid "drowsy summer sounds," on Cardiff Hill. For Twain, we know, was writing about himself when he wrote about Tom Sawyer. Tom's sweetheart, Becky Thatcher, was present at the unveiling of the statue. In real life she is Mrs. Laura Frazier.

Delectable Land: Boy Paradise. That, says Twain, was Cardiff Hill. But think of the delectable land and the boy paradise that he opened to millions when he wrote "Tom Sawyer" and "Huck Finn" and immortalized the finest thing on earth, the bad boy.

For Tom and Huck, you know, were bad. Not malicious. Just plumb mischievous and wholesomely real. Huck smoked a cornucopia and Tom "sassed" his Aunt Polly and fought with the village boys. Tom played hookey and Huck wouldn't go to school at all. But in their hearts they were clean and fine, and we love them.

Can it be that you are one of those who have never read Tom and Huck? Never floated down the Mississippi with Huck on a raft? Never laughed at lovable old Aunt Polly as she tried to discipline the irrepressible Tom? Never listened to Huck's philosophy?

If you have never done these things you are indeed unfortunate. But it is not too late. By all means, run to the library and borrow Huck and Tom. Better still, buy the books and read them over and over. Read them and never grow old. Read them and go back to the boy paradise, back to the fragrance of locust blossoms on Cardiff Hill, close to the "Father of Waters."

EXCEL IN PUBLIC LIGHTING

In New York, America has the city with the most efficient and thorough street lighting system of any other large city in the world. Closest investigations fail to disclose anything to be desired in making comparisons with Paris, London, Vienna, Brussels, Stockholm, Berlin, Rome and other European cities.

All cities may have spots in which public illumination approaches that of New York, but it is not a question of Broadway and Fifth Avenues only, but also of those other areas usually more densely populated with human beings but which unfortunately receive the least attention. In this it is believed that New York is an exception. Some of the other large cities of America approximate New York in this respect.

The development of public lighting from the flaming basin of pitch beside the street, the lantern hung before the door, the gas light and the arc light to the perfection of the incandescent lamp, is a triumph in which American inventive genius has figured pre-eminently in giving to the world the best light and the best lighted city.

A TRAGEDY OF CHEWING GUM

Chewing gum, the sweetened stick that cheers, cost an aspiring lad of a midwestern city his career.

The aspiring lad with Herculean chest and mighty biceps did crave a policeman to be. Night after night he burned the midnight oil poring over those ponderous tomes which enlighten one on the best manner to return lost children to their homes, to help faire ladies across the teeming thoroughfares, and to fell the vilest villain in his den of dark iniquity.

He was summoned to appear before the great city's safety director. Chest protruding, shoulders squared, shoes agleam, face alight with the future that was to be, he stood before that arbiter of his fate.

Then the mighty director boomed out—"Spit out that gum and get out!"

And for want of a quiet jaw, a valiant future was lost.

Our hearts go out to the stricken gum-chewing would-be defender of the law. Girls have been warned since time immemorial never, never, never to chew gum in the presence of future employers.

But no one has ever said to aspiring lads, "Do not chew gum when asking for a job." The world must shoulder full blame for this dire disaster.

All city boys don't think we get milk from bottles. Some think we get dimes from them.

There are a couple of dozen things you should be doing instead of reading this paragraph.

Reading the signs of the times isn't so very difficult. They all say, "Go Right Ahead."

Don't worry too much today. Things may be worse tomorrow and then you can worry just twice as hard.

FAULTS IN BABY FOOD

Recently someone inquired about feeding a baby "lactic acid milk" and I branded that a bad idea. A medical man now asks what is my objection to lactic acid milk, or other acidified milk for a baby.

When milk sours it develops lactic acid. The lactic acid is produced by fermentation of the milk sugar or lactose which is the form in which carbohydrate occurs in milk. The fermentation is carried on by bacteria which are universally or normally present in milk. Some of these bacteria are killed off by the process of pasteurization. Pasteurization means heating the milk for other food up to 145 degrees Fahrenheit for about twenty minutes, then cooling again. That degree and duration of heat is sufficient to kill any disease germs which may be in the milk, say tubercle bacilli either from tubercular cows or possibly from contamination of the milk after milking, if some one with tuberculous handles the milk. This is the reason why pasteurization is insisted on for all milk to be marketed in the cities. Of course raw milk would be preferable if there were some assurance that the milk is pure and that no contamination has occurred from disease or unclean hands. Pasteurization is a necessary compromise with disease, filth and careless handling of the milk. Milk concerns betray a low principle when they attempt to propagate the notion that pasteurization improves the milk in any way; the truth is that this parboiling merely kills off any dangerous disease germs which may have gotten into the milk. It also kills off some of the lactic bacilli, the germs which carry on the fermentation process. For this reason pasteurized milk does not sour as promptly as pure raw milk does. Let no consumer be misled by the fact. It sours tardily because the lactic bacilli in it are entangled by the parboiling. These lactic bacilli, however, are rather friendly germs. A special strain of them, called Bulgarian bacilli, became popular a few years ago as a remedy favoring normal fermentative conditions in the intestine and indirectly rendering the field less suitable for abnormal putrefaction.

Soured milk scarcely seems natural for infants, even though it may be a wholesome article of diet for adults. Infants naturally get their food fresh and pure. That is the objection I have to lactic acid milk.

I am glad to quote here five conclusions drawn from very large experience in the feeding of infants by Dr. Clifford G. Grulee, a recognized authority on the subject:

1. Seven out of eight babies under six months of age can be fed in whole or in part on the breast.
2. Cereals and vegetables can be used to advantage in feeding infants in the second six months of life.
3. Acid milks are necessary in only one in 300 cases of infant feeding.
4. It may be necessary to substitute for cane sugar some other form of sugar in less than 10 per cent of artificially fed babies.
5. There is probably no advantage whatever in the use of proprietary infant foods, and practically no indication for their use.

I hope readers who are attempting to feed defenseless infants from pretty packages and costly cans will read conclusion No. 5 over and over again and then see whether they cannot somehow contrive to give the bimbo a fair deal for the rest of the sentence. If you want some help and guidance for following out rule No. 5, send me a stamped addressed envelope and ask for instructions for feeding the baby.

CHARGE INDIAN VIOLATED PAROLE

Robert Hill Must Face Judge Again Following Alleged Drinking Escapades

New London—Robert Hill, who recently was charged with driving a car while intoxicated, again was brought to the notice of New London police officials here Monday when Wenzel Zepnick of Seymour appeared and claimed ownership to the car which Hill had left as security for his appearance before the court to pay his fine of $50 and costs.

Mr. Zepnick stated the Indian was paroled to him some time ago and that his wages were to go toward paying a fine for stealing a car sometime during the early part of the summer.

The case was tried before Judge Berg of Appleton at that time and Hill was paroled.

While in the employ of Zepnick, the Indian decided that arduous labor and himself were complete strangers, so helping himself to his employer's car he started upon a tour of discovery.

Imbibing too freely of the nectar of the most high gods at various points on the way, he was haled into court in New London and pleaded guilty to the charge preferred. Since leaving this city he could not be a happy Indian with out a car, and at Wisconsin Rapids he was charged with having his third motor car of the season. Adversity stalked his path however and again he is in the clutches of the law and will be returned to Judge Berg for violating his parole.

DARING AVIATORS GET READY FOR HOP OVER OCEAN

Englishman and Frenchman
Would Fly Across Atlantic
Without Stopping

BY JAMES HASWELL
New York—Captain Rene Fonck, dapper Frenchman whose ambition is to make the first non-stop flight between New York and Paris, speaks not a word of English.

Lieut. Allan P. Snody, American naval aviator who accompanies him, speaks no French!

"How'll you talk to each other?" the interpreter asked. Fonck grinned. "We won't, have time," he said. "unless we're shipwrecked."

"—And if we're shipwrecked," he added, "we won't have anything to say."

The flight headed by this short, blue-eyed, merry French national hero is—if it succeeds—the second non-stop flight of heavier-than-air machines across the Atlantic.

The distance is 3800 miles; the prize is $25,000 offered by Raymond Orteig in 1919—and the real reason for the flight is, because, according to Capt. Fonck:

"It's the biggest stunt left to do in the world today."

The first trans-Atlantic flight in 1919 was made by Capt. John Alcock and Lieut. Arthur Brown, who subsequently was knighted for his gallantry on the expedition. The British flyers took off from Newfoundland, Canada, and flew 1980 miles in 16 hours, crashing at Clifden, Ireland, wrecking their plane, but escaping themselves.

Two dirigibles, the Los Angeles and the British, R-34, also have crossed the Atlantic, while several flights—notably that of the N-64, U. S. Navy—have been made by hops of several hundred miles each.

Of all the flyers, Fonck believes he is best equipped. He is using a giant biplane, several times larger than standard, designed by Count Igor Sikorsky—the Russian who formerly built planes for the czar—and built at Roosevelt Field, Long Island, under Fonck's personal supervision.

HAS THREE MOTORS
It has three motors of the latest design—Commander Richard E. Byrd used a three-motored plane in flying to the North Pole—each of 1800 horsepower.

The plane measures 101 feet from tip to tip, with a wing area of approximately 1000 square feet. It carries 2500 gallons of gasoline, enough to drive the motors 4000 miles in a dead calm.

This gives 200 miles margin, and is admittedly the greatest element of risk in the plans.

"If the winds blow against us all the way," Fonck says, "I suggest fatalism." When discussing the plans, "we won't have enough fuel to make it up."

"But I have spent three years studying them, and I don't believe they will. According to my calculations, if I pick the right moment to take off, the winds will be with me over half the distance."

FLOAT THREE DAYS
If forced down, Fonck estimates his plane will float for three or four days on buoyancy supplied by empty gasoline tanks.

Once down, then the flyers' only chance of escape alive is to summon aid by wireless.

The plane carries a small, efficient radio set designed by Charles Clavier of Paris and operated by a wind-driven electric motor.

For food the men carry a big basket of cold chicken sandwiches. An emergency ration is provided to be used in case of shipwreck, and the plane is equipped with a small distilling outfit to make sea-water drinkable.

Likewise, Fonck explained with a broad smile, they will carry a set of fishing tackle! That is the French touch.

Nobody will sleep. The flight will take 37 hours, if all goes well, and the plane maintains its scheduled speed of slightly more than 100 miles an hour.

The route chosen is a great arc bending northward.

This is hundreds of miles north of the main-traveled ship lanes. Quick-aid, should they call for it, probably would come from stray freighters.

It Started Something

"I have not said anything to you, but have been saying to others and have induced many to take your medicine. MAY'S is correctly named. It removed stuff from me I never thought could be in a human being and I feel like a different person. The pain in my right side disappeared at once, which four doctors said would require an operation; also the bloating and indigestion." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. All drug-gists. adv.

STAGE And SCREEN

A GAY HIGHWAYMAN

"The Social Highwayman," the Warner picture directed by William Beaudine, that opens Thursday at the Elite Theatre, has an interesting trio of players in the leading roles. John Patrick, who first won fame on the screen by a gay characterization of flaming youth sheiks, is featured in the role of Jay Rodman Walker, a young reporter. Patrick has been prominently associated with the role of a joyous idler, and this production gives him an opportunity to portray a reckless, adventuresome and romantic hero.

Dorothy Devore, the little brown-eyed girl, who developed herself into one of the most amusing of screen comedienne, plays Elsie Van Tylar, an heiress in search of a thrill.

Montagu Love plays the bandit deluxe, the daring, suave, gallant robber of the road, who pretends to befriend the two young adventurers and instead hauls them into the hands of the police for the crimes he himself committed.

"The Social Highwayman," written by Darryl Francis Zanuck and adapted to the screen by Phil Klein and E. T. Lowe, Jr., is a gay comedy-drama of real crooks and false crooks, of romance and thrills. Critics in other cities have hailed it as one of the most enjoyable screen comedies of the season.

FLAPPERS ABOUT IN SMALL TOWNS

Don't think that vamps or flappers are entirely confined to the big cities!

Clara Bow, who plays the leading feminine role in "Mantrap," which comes to the Fischeis Appleton theater next Sunday, proves that both are more dangerous in isolated communities, where they can appeal to the sympathies of lonely men.

"Mantrap" is an unusually brilliant, half-humorous triangle story of a trader in the Canadian woods, (Ernest Torrence), a New York lawyer, tired of women because they form his principal clients in fashionable divorce cases, (Percy Marmont), and a manicure girl from Minneapolis, who has married and gone to live at a Canadian woods trading post and who finds life pretty boring, (Clara Bow). There is also a "Babbit" manufacturer, a "knew-it-all" camper, (Eugene Pallette) who will delight the hearts of all campers who may have met this pest while on a camping expedition.

"Mantrap" is pronounced Sinclair Lewis' best piece of fiction.

FILM CELEBRITIES

IN "WINGS OF YOUTH" A galaxy of film celebrities are featured in "Wings of Youth," the William Fox film at the New Bijou today and Thursday. Headed by Madge Bellamy, beautiful star of "The Iron Horse," and Ethel Clayton, one of the most famed of screen luminaries, the cast of the Emmett Flynn production presents an imposing array of stars.

SOCIAL GAD-FLY NEEDED TO STING US INTO ACTION

Trever Has Praise for Critic of Ourselves and Our Institutions

"People of today dislike being criticized—they refused to be roused out of their stupor. What we need, as do all generations, are social gad flies—human insects that sting our consciences with their biting sarcasm directed against our habits and modes of living." This was the text of the address on "The Social Gad Fly," delivered by Prof. A. A. Trever, Lawrence college instructor, to Appleton Rotary club at its meeting in Northern hotel Tuesday noon.

"We do not realize the remarkable service that the social gad fly renders civilization," Mr. Trever said, "for we are too willing to condemn any such attempts at reform as anarchism and immediately proceed to rout them from the nation."

THE FIRST GAD-FLY

Many hundreds of years ago there was a wise old Greek philosopher who lived in the city of Athens. He was one of the greatest thinkers the world has ever known, but every time he opened his mouth he said something well worth while listening to. He was unafraid of the truth, and invariably spoke it wherever and whenever he got the opportunity.

"He was one of the world's first gad flies, and his criticism often led to embarrassing revelations. He directed his campaigns against the self-satisfied people of Athens, who, in turn, instead of benefiting from the truths he revealed, turned against him, and one of the finest and most brilliant men the world has ever known. Socrates, passed out of this life after drinking the famous cup of poison hemlock."

SWAT THE FLY

"The trouble with civilization today is that its members, just as the old Athenians, are too self-satisfied. We believe that our old established institutions are perfect, and we refuse to heed criticism delivered against them. I am proud of being American—and I am proud of our institutions, but at the same time I believe that nothing is above reproach. However, when it comes, in the shape of scathing and bitter denunciation on the part of critics and pessimists, who are termed social gad flies, we immediately resent it, and turn upon them scathing denunciation of their preachings in return, trying our best at every turn to 'swat the fly.'"

NEED CRITICISM

"Men like Sinclair Lewis, with his 'Main Street,' and H. L. Mencken, with scarcely veiled irony in his magazine articles, are the gad flies of today. We must learn to take their criticisms with a good sense of humor and good sportsmanship. They are the elements of civilization that sting us out of our inactivity and into a spirit of progress, for progress only comes by breaking away from old customs and ideas. All arguments have two sides, and each side usually has some truth in it. We must learn to listen to both sides without getting 'hot under the collar.' Let's do away with hypocrisy and pretense, and lend a little time to the consideration of our faults, ceasing to always do the things we like to do, listening to things we like to listen to, and believing explicitly in things we like to believe in. People of today might well benefit from that wise extract from the works of Robert Burns, to 'see ourselves as others see us.'"

SCHOOLS AND FUEL DEALERS IN NEW AGREEMENT

SELL COAL TO CITY SCHOOLS AT $2 PROFIT

Reach "Gentleman's Agreement" on Price and Delivery of Fuel

Through a "gentlemen's agreement" between Appleton fuel dealers and the local board of education, all city schools are to be supplied with coal of a uniform quality at a cost which will net the dealer not more than $2 gross profit per ton. This plan, which was formulated by the maintenance and property committee of the board, tends to decrease the fuel expense for city schools, insure the proper kind of coal, guarantee the dealers a fair profit, distributes the business evenly among local fuel dealers and benefit both the city and the dealers.

OLD PLAN CONFUSING
There always has been much confusion in the purchase of coal under the district system. Principals, janitors or school board members have done the ordering without much attention to price or quality. There was never any inspection of the coal or any checkup made on the amount delivered. Many dealers emptied coal into the same bins, and if it was of a poor quality, it was impossible to place the blame. Some dealers got a lot of the city business and others got hardly any. There was much confusion and many complaints. The new plan attempts to remove all this unnecessary confusion.

The merchants chose a committee of two, C. L. Marston and Stephen J. Egert, who with William J. Egert, Axel Fahlstrom and W. H. Kreiss, members of the maintenance and property committee, agreed on this new plan. Either party of the agreement can break the contract with a fifteen days' notice. The school board promises that if it will purchase the coal by the rules set up, it will purchase the coal for schools only from Appleton dealers. The merchants committee is to dispose of the business among the city dealers, to the satisfaction of all.

BUY IN CARLOADS
Coal will be delivered in car load lots and will be hauled to the schools direct from the cars to save the expense of trucking the coal to and from the yards. The dealers must report to the board the wholesale price of the coal at the mines and amount of freight per ton. The price which they made to the school board is not to be raised, except in the case of Pocahontas coal, in which instance, any increase in the wholesale price may be added, reserving the right to the board of education to change the kind of coal to be used whenever it so decides.

If there should be a reduction in the price of the coal or the freight rates to the dealers at any time during the school year, then the quoted prices shall be reduced in the same proportion, on all coal delivered after the date of the reduction. The school board insures the dealers a gross profit of $2 per ton, out of which they must pay the delivery expenses.

ENGAGE EXPERT
The kind of coal which will be used in each school is to be determined by a conference between the janitor or engineer of each building, the dealer's committee and the members of the maintenance and property board, when necessary. The dealers shall secure, through their dealers committee, a heating expert who will visit the city schools several times during the burning season and instruct the janitor or engineer in the proper manner to burn coal most efficiently and economically. This expense is to be paid by the dealers.

The dealers committee is to file with the board a report showing the kind and amount of coal being furnished to each school and by which dealer. If any poor coal is delivered, the blame can be placed. A delivery slip with the tonnage must be left with the janitor, at each school on delivery of any coal.

CHECKS WEIGHT
Under the new plan, dealers must inform the dealer of weights and measures, 12 hours before the delivery of coal, so that he can be on hand to check the weight. It was at first suggested to accept the car weight, but the city sealer determined that all coal must be weighed in wagon lots because dealers have reported that cars are from 50 to 900 pounds short at times.

School fuel expense is the second largest item on the school budget for next year. The purchase of fuel amounts to $20,000, based on last year's record. It is hoped through the new plan, which is to be in effect until June 1, 1927, unless it is cancelled sooner, that the fuel expense will be greatly decreased.

In case of a disagreement between the dealers and board of education regarding the delivery or quality of coal, the dealers agree to abide by the action taken by the city fuel committee. All city fuel dealers have been supplied with a copy of the agreement.

HERE ARE FIVE GENERATIONS

FIVE generations, each represented by a woman and all living is the remarkable story of this family. Mrs. Charles Hutchins, 91, the great-grandmother is living at Lincoln, Neb., with her husband who is 94. The folks do their own work around the home.

Mrs. Hutchins was born in Maine and was married when she was 19. She had five children. The great-grandmother, Mrs. L. C. Hamel is 60 years of age and is living at Withee, Wis. She was born in Portage-co and married when she was 19 years old. She had 11 children. Her husband is dead.

The grandmother, Mrs. Edward Baker, is 38 and is living at Withee, Wis. She was married when she was 18 years old and had three children. Her husband is living.

The mother, Mrs. A. M. Nelson, 1414 W. Spencer-st., Appleton, is 22 years of age. She was born in Appleton and married at the age of 18. She has two children and her husband is living. The baby was born at Withee.

All of the persons in the five generations lived for some time in Appleton. Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Hamel and Mrs. Charles Hutchins are old settlers here and are well known among the older residents of Appleton.

COMMITTEE WILL CONSIDER PLANS FOR GOLF COURSE

Petitions Indicate Sufficient Demand for Municipal Club Here

Plans for the establishment of a municipal golf course in Appleton will be considered by the sub-committee on golf of the community welfare committee at a meeting of the latter part of the week. Ed Harwood, chairman of the committee, is attending a photographer's meeting in Chicago, and the date of the committee meeting will not be set until his return.

The committee has satisfied itself that there is a demand for another golf course in the city. Between $50 and 400 persons voluntarily signed petitions prepared by the committee urging the city park commission to construct a city golf course in South park, Fourth ward. The petitions were placed in sporting goods houses and similar establishments, but no signatures were solicited.

With such a large number of persons favoring establishment of a municipal club, it is probable that a course will be constructed next year. Members of the park commission have indicated their approval of the proposal provided the demand is large enough and sufficient donations are assured to help finance the project. It was for the purpose of determining the demand that the chamber of commerce committee prepared the petitions.

A number of substantial donations already have been promised to support the project, including several individual subscriptions of $1,000 each. With this support assured, the course becomes a reality more than ever, according to members of the committee.

The proposed course would be 9 holes, and would cost slightly more than $10,000. It is estimated by those interested in the movement, Nine more holes could readily be added if it was discovered that the first nine was not sufficient to accommodate the players. A ball diamond and tennis courts also could be built at the park.

Give Yourself a Chance Be as pretty as you can be.

By Edna Wallace Hopper

As a girl I resolved to gain more beauty, and I went to France to learn the ways. I have made 34 trips there in these quests for beauty and for youth. The thousands who see me daily on the stage know the marvelous results. I still look a girl of 19.

The best France gave me has been placed at every woman's call. Toilet counters everywhere supply them in my name. As Edna Wallace Hopper's beauty helps. And I am doing my best so that all girls and women may know what these things can do.

One is my Youth Cream. It combines a number of the best helps French scientists gave me. These include products of both lemon and strawberry, plus the best that experts know to foster, feed and preserve the skin. I largely owe my youth and beauty to the factors in that cream.

Try it a few days. Watch its effects. The revelation that it brings may change your whole career. It comes in two types—Cold Cream and Vanishing. I use one at night, the other in the morning. Never is my skin without it. Try it once and I am sure you will always want the results it brings. In 60c jars and 35c tubes.

WILL CONDUCT HEARING OVER ROUTE OF ROAD

Citizens Petition Highway
Commission to Reroute
Highway 151

Neenah—The state highway commission will conduct a hearing at 1:30 Thursday afternoon at Neenah city hall on the petition of citizens of Neenah to reroute highway 151. The present route takes traffic off the cement highway onto a clender road for several miles and back to highway 150. It is dangerous inasmuch as traffic coming to Neenah must cross seven railway tracks of the Soo line to reach the main road from the west, the city contends.

The petition asks that the route be changed so that traffic will remain on the new cement highway 151 into Neenah where it connects with highway 15 at Church-st.

MANY ATTEND FIRST PICNIC FOR FARMERS

Continuing throughout the afternoon there were more games and contests, with short talks by well known farm workers. It is the plan of these sponsoring the picnic to have an annual gathering of farmers in order to encourage a better acquaintance with those residing in the rural districts of the entire valley.

START CONSTRUCTION OF WATER INTAKE LINE

Neenah—Work was started Wednesday by Arthur Sawyer and crew, of building the soft water intake line between the Bergstrom Paper company and the Soo line water tank. There is a distance of 1,830 feet between the intake and the tanks. Hereafter the water has been too hard to use in locomotives but the soft water used by the paper mill will be pumped into a retaining tank near the Soo depot. Should this plan be successful, another pipe line will be installed between the tank and the new roundhouse, a distance of several blocks. The water will be siphoned from the tank to the roundhouse.

Both teams were tied for first place in the league standing. Kiwanis defeated the Rotarians by a score of 8 to 6, putting the Softwoods and Kiwanis in a position to play for city championship. In the game between the Grocers and the News-Times, darkness compelled the players to stop at the end of the sixth inning when the score was 22 to 11 in favor of the Grocers. # VANITY CASE

by Carolyn Wells
© 1926 by G. P. PUTNAM SONS

BEGIN HERE TODAY
MRS. PRENTISS sees lights mysteriously appear and disappear next door in the HEATH household one night, and the next morning Harbor Gardens Long Island, is agog with the murderer of MYRA HEATH and the disappearance of her husband PERRY.

House guests of the Heaths are LAWRENCE INMAN and BUNNY MOORE. Inman might have a motive because he is heir to Myra's considerable fortune, she having cut Perry off. Suspicion also points to golden-haired, vivacious Bunny, because of her refusal to answer questions at the inquest.

Myra Heath was peculiar. She never used cosmetics, never wore colors. She had a mania for collecting glass, and it was a rare old whisky bottle from her collection that the murderer used to kill her. Candles were burning at her head and feet, and nearby was a card marked, "The Work of all, she was heavily made up and dressed with gay colors."

The peculiar thing about Heath's disappearance is the fact that all windows and doors had been locked on the inside the night before and were found that way by the butler in the morning. Finger prints of Bunny Moore and Inman were found on the bottle and physicians established that the rouge was applied to Myra Heath after death.

At the Country Club, the murder is discussed by SAM ANDERSON, Heath's rival for the club presidency; AL CUNNINGHAM, who is trying to solve the crime; and others. Some believe Heath the murderer. Others, including Anderson, disagree. Cunningham learns from Mrs. Prentiss of the mysterious lights TODD HUNTER BUCK, her nephew, suggests that Heath also may have been murdered.

With Buck, Cunningham makes an inspection of the Heath home.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XX

The bedroom was beautiful, done up in pale gray and silver, quite in keeping with the exquisite taste and love of simplicity that had characterized Myra Heath in life.

Carter sat by a window, doing a bit of mending, and she looked up, inquiringly as the two came in.

"Where is Mrs. Heath's vanity case?" Cunningham asked, without preliminaries.

"She has several," the maid returned.

"Get them all out," was the order, and from some cupboard and drawers, Carter produced three, all beautiful and costly, and all in such a state of newness that it was plain to be seen they had never been used.

Scanning the three, carefully, and noting their newness, Cunningham said, looking about, "Where is the one she used? These have never been even opened."

"Mrs. Heath never used a vanity box, sir," Carter told him. "She had her powder-puff box, here on the dresser, but she never used rouge or lip salve."

"Ah, yes, I see. Go and bring me from Mrs. Moore's room. The one she habitually uses."

Carter hesitated a moment, and then catching the austere glance of the man's eye, she went on the errand, and returned with an elaborate gold affair, that had many dangling chains and accessories attached to the main box.

"This is the one Miss Moore uses?" Cunningham asked.

"It is the only one I have seen her use since she has been here," Carter returned.

"I'll keep it," Cunningham said.

When Cunningham and Toddy Buck came downstairs, they learned that Bunny had concluded to go home with Mrs. Prentiss and stay for a time.

The combined persuasions of that insistent lady and Larry Inman had resulted in Bunny's acquiescence, and she was about to go up for a suitcase and some necessary belongings.

"I needn't take much," she said, pausing at the foot of the stairs, "for I can run back and forth for whatever I need."

She ran along up, and Cunningham, after a few words of farewell, took his departure.

A few moments later Bunny came down from upstairs, followed by Carter, with a small suitcase.

"I'm ready," she said slowly, to Mrs. Prentiss, "but I can't find my vanity box. It's the queerest thing—I had it in my room just before dinner. I usually have it about with me, but—I left it upstairs, and now I can't find it!"

Toddy Buck hesitated. He knew Cunningham had taken it away, but he was uncertain whether to tell that or not. He concluded to keep silent on the matter for he had told Cunningham he would not interfere with his detective work, and he felt he was not at liberty to divulge the detective's secrets.

Bunny said no more about it, though it was plain to be seen it worried her.

With a quietness unusual for her gay little self, she said good night to Inman and went with Mrs. Prentiss across the lawn to the house next door.

It was also unusual for Bunny to pay so little attention to a presentable and attractive young man, as she showed toward Toddy Hunter Buck.

But Bunny was not herself. Small wonder, considering the shock she had sustained.

Once in Mrs. Prentiss' cherry if old-fashioned living room, Bunny stood, irresolutely, by a table and faced the other two.

Her big blue eyes were appealing. She looked baby-like and helpless.

But Bunny Moore was not helpless, if she looked so, that was nature's fault, not her own.

A more wise, canny, sophisticated little piece than Bunny could scarcely be imagined.

But she was troubled. And, if truth were known, she had reason to be.

"Mr. Buck," she said, speaking almost for the first time directly to Toddy, "I know perfectly well you and Mr. Cunningham are shadowing me. I think that is the term the detectives use."

"Why—why, Miss Moore—" Toddy was dumfounded at this, "why, you must know if I could do anything to help you—"

"You would do just the opposite! Yes, of course I know that!" Bunny's eyes blazed now, and her voice quivered. The poor child was all wrought up, her nerves were on edge, and she felt she must take it out of some body.

But she looked so lovely, so like a bruised blossom or a broken butterfly, that Toddy Buck forgot all about Cunningham and his detective work, and wanted only to enlist in the service of Bunny Moore for the rest of his mortal career.

"Now you just wait!" he exclaimed, eagerly, "I'm for you—all for you! And I'll put all my cards on the table. Al Cunningham did take your vanity case, or whatever you call it. And I'm expecting you to tell me why he took it, and why you care so much that he did take it."

Buck looked at her straight forwardly, and to his delight, Bunny returned the glance with equal calmness.

Barbara Bedford in "Old Loves and New" AT THE ELITE LAST TIMES TODAY.

love or about to fall in it, with Bunny Moore.

He knew, too, that Detectives Mott, as well as the amateur Cunningham strongly believed that the exquisite child knew more than she had told about the fearful tragedy at the Heath bungalow.

This, to Buck's mind, did not make the girl any less desirable or attractive as an innamorata, but he did feel that he had to know.

That was one strong differentiation between Mrs. Prentiss and her nephew, Mrs. Prentiss, with her almost uncanny intuition, knew things.

Toddy Buck, in his blundering but pig-headed way, believed things, and had to find out.

So, to the rooms of the Co-operative Casket Co. he went, feeling sure that beyond the great palms and oriental vases of their entresol, he would find the man he was looking for.

Nor was he disappointed. In a private room, of which there were several, he found closeted Al Cunningham and Detective Mott in earnest consultation.

A THREAT
"I was very happy, Julie. I trust that letter of Tortentio's into my bosom and every time I moved I was conscious of the crackling of the paper and it sent a little glow all over me."

"I do not think I was ever so happy in all my life before that and I know I have never been so happy since. It almost hurt me. I was so afraid that it wouldn't last."

"Alas! It did not."
"But, I didn't know it then. All I could think of was that I could give my mother that extra ten dollars a week that I had promised her and yet I could take lessons in voice culture from this wonderful teacher. I thought to myself that no one else in all this world had ever had such good fortune before."

"Of course it never entered my mind that I wouldn't make good. I know I have a voice and if God will only let me some day show the world what I can do. I won't care whether I have happiness or joy or pleasure. I only want to sing."

"That afternoon I received orders from Madame Seria that Miss Lawrence would be at the shop and that I was to put on a number of frocks that she had seemed to like. Miss Lawrence came in alone, but she didn't come to try on frocks. She was perfectly furious. She asked for Madame Seria and told her, not in the politest manner, that she must discharge me or lose a customer."

"I was just outside the curtain waiting to be called and when I heard this I almost fainted. I saw all my rosy dreams being dissipated. If it came to a choice between Lola Lawrence and Mamie Riley, Madame Seria would certainly not keep me."

"Lola Lawrence probably spent more during the year than any one person among all Madame's wealthy customers."

"Nervously I began to unbutton the dress I had been going to model for Miss Lawrence, when I heard Madame say:

"My dear Miss Lawrence, surely you will not ask me to let Miss Riley go when you know her story. I happen to know she is the only wage-earner in her family and that she has a mother and an invalid sister to support. Surely you would not have me turn a girl like that out."

"She could easily get another place," was the sullen answer of Miss Lawrence. "I myself will give her a couple of hundred dollars to tide her over until she places herself, but I cannot have her here. I don't want ever to see her again. There's something about her that I cannot endure."

ELECTRICITY CARRIED TO WISCONSIN SHRINE

Richfield—(P)—Holy Hill, site of the Carmelite monastery near here, is being electrified. The Carmelite Fathers who occupy the historic monastery on the top of a steep and wooded eminence soon will command light and power manufactured by turbines at the Lakeside power plant in Milwaukee, 42 miles away.

The chapel, the monastery and even the shrines marking the ascent to the crest of the hill will be illuminated electrically, it is planned. Holy Hill has been a mecca for thousands of worshippers and visitors from Wisconsin, Illinois and other states for 60 years.

The Milwaukee Electric company has completed a new distribution line from Highway 15 near Richfield to the base of the hill. Besides providing current to the Carmelite institution, the line will serve sixty farms, the community of Hubertus and a group of hotels at the base of Holy Hill.

With a few lines already installed, the new line is ten miles long. Eventually it is planned to serve a wide area in the towns of Richfield, Erin, and Hartford and a growing summer colony on Fress Lake.

ESTABLISH PICKLE PLANT IN APPLETON
A new pickle station is being built on the extreme west end of W. College-ave by the Planagan-Loughlin Pickle company. The firm will use the new station as a receiving plant, from where it will ship cucumbers under three and a half inches long to its Chicago plant for packing. Cucumbers over that size will be packed in dill at the local station.

The firm is now receiving produce from 125 growers within a few miles of Appleton.

MAY HOLD VALLEY SOFTBALL TITLE TOURNAMENT

Six Cities Will Be Asked To Enter Teams If Present Plans Prove Satisfactory

Softballers of Valley Asked to Give Approval and Tell Their Ideas

Possibilities of a championship tournament between leading softball players of five and perhaps six cities of the Fox river valley to determine the valley softball title for 1926 loomed bright this week as the result of challenges which flew thick and fast. Two softball loops are now in play in Neenah, Menasha, Appleton and Green Bay with one in Kimberly and Kaukauna and a valley tourney is a logical thing with the game becoming more and more popular with both young and old.

The whole thing is alleged to have started when "Cub" Buck of Neenah, new head football coach at Miami University, said that he could pick a team from Neenah that would clean up the best in Appleton. Buck's statement was resented by local men with the result that challenges flew thick and fast. Buck played with the local Rotarians once upon a time.

PICK ALL-STAR TEAMS

The idea of the tourney would be to invite Neenah, Menasha, Kimberly, Kaukauna, Green Bay and Appleton to pick teams for the tourney. As Buck desired to pick an all-star team, the same would be done in every city if plans carry through. That is the championship team would not represent the city unless it has the ten best players in town on it. At least eight men probably will be from that team while the other teams in the city leagues would be looked over for the best players outside of the title squad. These men would bolster the weak spots and battle of the title. For instance in Appleton the strong Legion crew, city champs, could add stars of any other local squad to complete its weak spots. Men like McKenzie of the Bankers, Starnard of the Post-Crescent, Kirk of the Interlakes, Beyer of the Meyer Press, Bates of the Post-Crescent and others could be used to strengthen weak spots of the Legion.

Both Neenah and Menasha have city champs, while Kimberly has an all-star team which recently beat a Kaukauna crew in an inter-city contest. Kaukauna will have a city series between the Bankers and Homans winners in the split race of the league. The Legion is virtual city champ of Appleton. Green Bay may or may not consider entering as it has two loops, which were started for the first time this year. They started late and did not get through for the season. The champs also probably will meet for the city title when the loop games are done. However, a Bayman recently told a local softballer that the game is being received so enthusiastically there that crowds as big as turn out for a valley league tilt are out every night and that's going some. With the Bay in six teams would meet, three being the champions and three playing each other in a three-game series for the title. With five in every team would have to play each other or else one draw a bye in the first round, leaving four and then two to fight it out in three rounds.

Either the games could be played at Appleton, a central point, especially if Green Bay is undecided on entering, or at the home field of the team which wins each round have been drawn. All this is merely suggestions for carrying on such a tourney and as it must be pulled off in short order without having time for representatives of each team to meet at a central point to plan the entire meet, softballers in each city of the valley are requested to write to the sport department of the Post-Crescent giving their opinion on such a tourney.

Any softball player in the six cities can write to the Post-Crescent as to whether the tourney is favorable to themselves and friends, as an all-star team, not the city champions, will enter the meet. In writing make suggestions as to the solution of the tourney schedule, place for playing games, composition of teams and any other plan for the meet. If enough favor the meet and agree on details the management will be undertaken by an enthusiastic group of players from the cities represented and the majority of the opinions expressed in the letters as to each detail such as place for playing, schedule, etc., will decide each of these issues. The letters will be turned over to the committee by the Post-Crescent.

THREE HOMERS WHIP HENS; BREWS GAIN 1

Milwaukee — The business of cinching Milwaukee's first muslin since 1914 was given sturdy impetus by Bunny Briefs' menacing mace Tuesday. In a game of home run or no count, the Brewers took a reef in the Madison sails and ran the good ship Toledo aground at the entrance to Victory harbor. The score was 3 to 2 and was as close as it looks. The Colonels again lost to the Millers, and now trail by two and one-half games.

MADISON LASS IN WESTERN MEET

Dorothy Page, 1926 Badger Woman Champ, Still in Golf Meet

Chicago—If golf ever was "an old mans game" there is now at hand evidence to demonstrate that now it is a sport for young women.

Ten of the sixteen first round survivors paired in the second eighteen of the Women's Western championship tournament at Olympia Fields Wednesday are still to celebrate their 23rd birthday.

Miss Naomi Hull of Kendallville who came to the fore as one of the principal contenders for the title by eliminating the qualifying medalist, Mrs. Lee Mida of Chicago in Tuesday's play is 18 and Miss Marion Turple of New Orleans the southern champion, matched with Mrs. Melvin Jones of Olympic Fields. In the second pair to the tee, will not be 18 until December.

The pairing in the order of the Tee call, with the qualifying scores: Naomi Hull 92 and Mrs. Jay S. Cassel, Aurora, Ill., 82. Marion Turple, 91 and Mrs. Melvin Jones 87.

Mrs. Hanley Higbie, Detroit 88, and Dorothy Page, Madison, 90; Elsie Hilding, Grand Rapids, Mich. 87, and Dorothy Lott, Chicago 92; Mrs. Curtis Solt, Columbus, Ohio, 80; and Mrs. O. S. Hill, Kansas City, Mo., 83.

Mrs. Davis D. Vetch, Kansas City, Mo., 97, and Margaret Waddles Hutchinson, Kan., 87; Virginia Ingram, Chicago, 97, and Mrs. Perry Flisk, De Kalb, Ill., 84.

Mrs. Stewart Hamley, Detroit, 92, and Sara Richards, Chicago, 94.

DECIDE HORSESHOE TITLE OF K-C MILL

Kimberly—A horseshoe tournament to decide the championship of the Kimberly Clark mill was opened Tuesday noon at Kimberly park. Twelve men have entered the meet which will last until the championship in both the singles and doubles has been decided. First, second and third prizes will be given in the singles, first prize in the doubles, and a prize will also be given to the person getting the most rings in the singles.

The results of the games Tuesday noon:

E. Kruger defeated F. Gerrits, 31-19; J. Van Haelst beat J. Pennings, 30-25; G. Hankitz whipped A. Schlitz, 30-19; C. Van Haelst was beaten by W. Peerenboom, 35-19. D. Williams lost to C. Bush, 32-6. D. Courchane was beaten by H. Friebe, 50-20. In ringers E. Kruger is leading with eight, and J. Van Haelst, C. Bush and W. Peerenboom have seven each.

BAND TO GREET TUNNEY AT TRAINING QUARTERS

Speculator, N. Y.—(P)—Gene Tunney plans to leave Monday for his new training camp at Stroudsburg, Pa. He will go via New York and Philadelphia.

One United States Marine band and a large detachment from the marine barracks will meet their former "buddy" at the station in Philadelphia and escort him to the exhibition grounds. He expects to be established in his new camp Tuesday evening.

OSHKOSH SQUAD IN HARD WEEKEND

Plays Fondy and Appleton; Must Win to Hold Top from Farismen

STANDINGS	W.	L.	Pct.

Fond du Lac	10	5	.667
Green Bay	10	7	.588
APPLETON	6	10	.375
Kimberly	6	11	.353
Neenah	5	10	.333

SATURDAY GAME

Fond du Lac at Oshkosh.

SUNDAY GAMES

OSHKOSH AT APPLETON. Neenah at Kimberly. Fond du Lac at Green Bay.

First place is at stake in the Fox River Valley baseball league Saturday and Sunday in games involving four teams. Oshkosh, the leader, Fond du Lac, Green Bay, and Appleton. Oshkosh leads Fondy by a single game and both are scheduled for two weekend tilts, one between the first place rivals at Oshkosh Saturday. On Sunday Fondy plays Green Bay, its closest rival for second place, while Oshkosh meets the team which broke its long winning streak of a month ago at Fondy two straight games over the weekend Fondy can tie for the top or take it alone. By beating Oshkosh Saturday, a tie will be caused, and this will remain Sunday if both teams win or lose. However, if Fondy wins Sunday and Oshkosh loses, the Sawdusters will be forced into second place. An Oshkosh win Sunday, as Fondy loses, would place the Neenah back on top alone if Fondy loses. So it's a case of win both or no use.

The third team which may profit by Oshkosh and Fondy playing two tilts this week is Green Bay. Should Oshkosh beat Fondy Saturday, the Bays will take second place if they can turn the trick again Sunday and beat a half from the top. If Appleton beat the Neenah here, Oshkosh is the Baetzmen's most hated rival except possibly Kimberly and nothing would please local fans more than to humble the chesty loop leaders and Bruce Noel. Besides the locals have lost the last three games, all by close scores, none to Neenah in an extra frame, and one to the Bay, though outlasting the Clusman tribe in order to hold their position in the race and keep ahead of the fast-stepping Neenah crew, now fighting for a first-division position by the end of the season, the locals must win Sunday.

Neenah and Kimberly clash in a cellar battle with all odds favoring Neenah. A win for either while Appleton is losing will harm the Baetzmen so they must win from Oshkosh. If Neenah beats the Clusman here, it means out of the cellar for the boys. This season, putting the K-C boys on the bottom rung, an Appleton loss at the same time will boost the Larson crew clear from the cellar to fourth place, shoving Appleton to fifth with the Kimberly game here and the following week deciding the cellar again. If Kimberly loses, Neenah remains on the bottom, but the K-C men replace the locals in fourth.

Tunney's First And Last Defeat Came From Harry Greb, 1st Good Man He Met

Billy Gibson, Maker of Champs, Took Over Gene When Bagley Weakened

This is the fourth of a series of articles by Joe Williams, flistic expert of NEA Service, Inc., dealing with the life story of Gene Tunney, challenger for the heavyweight championship.

BY JOE WILLIAMS

The first good man Gene Tunney met as a professional beat him. That man was Harry Greb, the ring's most celebrated "Good Time Charlie." Greb won on points and became the American light-heavyweight champion. You might say he also won on jolts, butts rolling falls and dropkicks. It was that kind of a fight.

Naturally a foul fighter, when in the mood, Greb fought a particularly furious fight that night against the inexperienced Tunney, roughing him in the clinches, hitting at the break and butting whenever he pleased.

Not that he had to resort to such tactics to win because at the time he was obviously Tunney's superior, but the referee, Kid McFarland, was a tolerant soul and Greb seemed to realize he could run the gamut of fistic crime without official interference.

Tunney was severely battered in this fight. His ear was cut, his lips were split and his nose was fractured. During the closing rounds he bled with great fluency and when the final bell sounded he was a tragic looking figure.

The fight was held in the old Madison Square Garden. It was Tunney's first defeat and his last. The metropolitan papers were none too gracious to him the following morning. They damned his ring potentialities with such left-handed flatulencies as—"A good strong boy who can take it but hardly a championship prospect."

Tunney then took on Charlie Weinert, the Newark Adonis, and won a 12-round decision. A lot of the boys had been bounding Weinert on the carpet and Tunney expressed his private disappointment that he had not been able to score a knockout.

"I went back to the gymnasium and tried to figure out why I hadn't stopped Weinert," relates Gene. "I fought—the whole fight over again both in my mind and on my feet, shooting punches at and imaginary opponent. I resolved to get another match with him and concentrate on a body attack."

In the first fight with Weinert Tunney had concentrated on a head attack. Weinert had consistently blocked his left hooks and right crosses to the jaw. And in doing so had left himself fairly wide open for crashing body blows, a weakness Tunney had ignored.

They were matched again and Tunney sent Weinert sprawling on his back in three rounds. The campaign, conceived and carefully worked out in the murky silences of the gymnasium, had done the trick. Here was a triumph for applied study as distinguished from what the ring knows as "fighting instinct."

It was at this time or thereabouts that Doc Bagley, a typical Broadwayite, began to weaken on Tunney. There was not enough color to Tunney to slake Bagley's thirst for the alienism. The promoters weren't allowing each other out of the way trying to sign him either.

So when Billy Gibson, persuaded by two of Tunney's friends, came to Bagley and offered him $500 for the reformed stenographer's contract, Doc executed a graceful cutesy and invited Gibson to establish a new speed record in laying the dough on the line.

Thus Tunney became the second heavyweight of importance to come under the management of Gibson, a man who had previously taken Benny Leonard as a raw, unskilled youth and brought him along by easy degrees to the lightweight championship of the world.

Gibson made a fortune out of Jim Coffey, a big, muscular Irishman from Roscommon, who stepped off a clanking trolley car into the heavy-weight picture back in the days when Jess Willard, Al Paizer, Luther McCarty and Frank Moran were occupying the spotlight.

The traditional humor of the Irish bubbles incessantly in the Gibson soul. He likes best of all to tell of a near riot which a wise-cracking friend of his perpetrated of the expense of Coffey.

Being the first Irish heavyweight of promise since Corbett's time, Coffey quickly became an idol around New York. Particularly was he idolized by his fellow aristocrats from the city bums.

Always when Coffey went into a gymnasium to train he was followed by a mob of admiring micks. His every action in the ring prompted a roar of approbation that exploded through a brogue inches thick.

On this particular day Coffey, getting ready to battle Moran, was sparring against one of the big negro heavyweights that were hanging around New York at the time. I think it was Joe Jeannette. Coffey was going well, too. His idolatrous group was entranced.

And then it happened. Gibson's aforementioned wise-cracking friend reached forward and touched a red-headed Irishman sitting at the ringside on the shoulder and with extreme suavity asked:

"I beg pardon, sir, but which of these two gentlemen is Coffey?" "Stand back, mates, and give 'em air."

The first important thing Gibson did after taking over Tunney was to strengthen the fighter's confidence. He did this not by heaping extravagant praises on Tunney's abilities but by convincing him that he didn't have much to beat to get to the top.

"You've got the size, the heart and the capacity for work and that's all you need," said Gibson.

Frank Walsh, star professional of Butte des Morts Country club and leading pro of the state, sort of started the natives up in the wilds of Wausau Tuesday when he played an exhibition match paired with Billy Sixty, crack Milwaukee amateur and links scribe, against Joe Kirkwood, Australian trick shot expert and Sweeney pro of the Wausau club. The men played a best-ball foursome and the Walsh-Sixty combination beat Kirkwood and Sweeney 2 up and 1 to go.

To accomplish the feat the winners shot the course in 70, two under par, while the losers could do no better than a 75, three over par. Walsh won every hole for his team. Sixty failing to count once during the entire 18 holes. Therefore, the 70 score really was Frank's individual score for the course, which is fairly difficult. At least so the large gallery which witnessed the match thought for it was unanimous in its praise of Walsh's work, many declaring that he was the best player ever to appear on the Wausau links. Of the 18 holes Frank scored six birdies, three on each nine. He made par 36 on the first nine and a 34 on the second nine. He took two birdies on the final two holes for the score.

Walsh left Wednesday for Indianapolis where he will compete in the Western Open tournament.

His card at Wausau:

Par	4 3 5 4 4 4 4 4 36
Out	4 3 5 4 4 3 5 36
	4 4 3 5 4 4 4 4 36
	3 5 5 4 4 4 3 36

The other pair shot a 37-39-75.

Two days of rest, spent largely in house hunting and shopping with his wife, left him keyed up for the grind ahead.

PLAY POSTPONED SOFTBALL GAMES

Tentative Schedule Prepared in League; Managers Must Approve

POSTPONED GAMES	W.	L.	Pct.
Monday—Y. M. C. A. vs Interlake.
Tuesday—Post-Crescent vs Bankers.
Wednesday—Interlake vs Meyer Press.
Friday—Post-Crescent vs Y. M. C. A.

In an effort to complete the 1926 schedule of the City Twilight softball loop next week, a tentative card of the four postponed tilts of the league has been drawn up by A. P. Jensen, physical director of the Y. M. C. A., sponsor of the circuit. The schedule will be presented to the managers of the six teams concerned for their approval. If it is approved it will be adopted and will go into use Monday afternoon with the Y. M. C. A. meeting the Interlakes.

The Legion crew has clinched the pennant but there still is a possibility of a second-place battle between the Triangles and the Post-Crescent and a fourth place fight and an effort to keep out of the cellar by the Bankers, Meyer Press and Interlakes.

The schedule as arranged is fair to all teams and still gets the post-game games over in a week. It probably will be approved by the managers. No team which plays two games during the week has them coming on successive days, the closest being with one day in between. This goes to the hardy Interlake crew, who meets the Triangles Monday and the Meyer Press Wednesday. The Triangles play on Monday and Friday and the Post-Crescent on Tuesday and Friday, with the Bankers playing but once, on Tuesday.

The Neenah slabster is a natural born twirler and the Chief thinks Nixon has a bright future ahead on the diamond.

Utica, N. Y.—(P)—Bushey Graham, Utica, beat Tommy Ryan, Buffalo 10-0.

One Week Left To Try For Post-Crescent Golf Prize

With less than a week remaining in which to turn in scores for the Post-Crescent handicap golf tournament for the month of August, linksmen of Butte des Morts and Riverview country clubs are urged to get busy in the next few days. Three scores must be turned in to the club committees in order to determine any decrease in the players handicap over the first of July. The man in either club lowering his handicap the most for the month takes first prize and the next largest decrease in handicap takes second award offered by the Appleton Post-Crescent.

John Neller took the prize for July with a 47.6 per cent reduction and J. N. "Bud" Fisher was next with a 47.4 per cent reduction, in an extremely close battle. It becomes harder to decrease the handicap as it becomes lower so that new champs probably will be crowned each month to take the valuable prizes. The prizes consist of golf balls, bags, clubs, equipment and lessons. Awards will be made at the end of September also. Results in the meet must be turned in early by the golfers and they must be in the hands of the Post-Crescent committee by Sept. 8 to receive consideration so club committees are urged to see that the work is completed as soon after the first of the month as possible.

WALTER JOHNSON FAVORITE PLAYER

Appleton Boys Pick Nat Mound Star; Get Theatre Passes Thursday

Walter Johnson, hurler of the Washington Senators, was chosen the post popular major league baseball player by boys of Appleton in the voting contest which closed Tuesday evening.

Boys who voted for Johnson will receive free passes to one performance at Fischer's Appleton theatre. The passes can be had by applying at the boys' division desk of the Y. M. C. A. Thursday afternoon.

A Johnson will be asked to autograph eight or ten baseballs and these will be hidden on the day that the first worlder series game is played on the Post-Crescent Playograph. After the "game," the boys who took part in the voting will take part in the treasure hunt with finger's keep. No boy will be allowed to find more than one ball. Each ball will be a real treasure with Johnson's famous name on it. Officials will have charge of the hunt.

"REB" RUSSELL STILL ABLE TO WALLOP BALL

"Reb" Russell, former White Sox pitching star but now playing the outfield for Indianapolis in the American Association, is still up to his old tricks. The other day the Hoosiers and Milwaukee were battling it out in a scoreless fray when Russell came to bat and promptly eased the pellet over the barrier for a home run, breaking up the combat. "Reb" always could hit the minor league stuff.

LANDIS, LAECKE IN TENNIS SEMI-FINALS

Two netmen advanced to the semi-finals of the annual Y. M. C. A. tennis tournament and championship this week as the result of wins in second round matches. Clem Laecke, Lawrence netman, started proceedings by whipping Arthur Homes in straight sets, 6-1, 6-1. Dr. R. V. Landis whipped Joseph Hantschel Tuesday afternoon, 6-2, 6-2. The remaining second round matches bring together Harold Rade and Eddie Kotal and Herman Gottlieb and Alva Carter. Laecke meets the winner of the Rade-Kotal fight while Landis takes on the conqueror in the Gottlieb-Carter battle.

Three Things

In LUCKY STRIKE cigarettes you get all that can be in any very fine cigarette—also the added pleasure produced by the extra process of toasting.

You get the choicest Turkish and domestic tobaccos, properly aged and perfectly blended.

But here are three additional things: LUCKY STRIKE tobaccos are toasted for 45 minutes in super-heat. This (1) removes all "bite" and harshness. It (2) develops the hidden flavors of the world's finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos. Then (3) sudden chilling seals the moist fragrance in, insuring freshness.

"IT'S TOASTED" represents a costly extra process that adds the finishing touch to a wonderfully fine cigarette.

BECAUSE IT'S TOASTED

That's Why Luckies Taste So Good

HELPFUL HINTS TO GOLFING STARS

JOHN DUNCAN, DUNN-CORRECTING FAULTS

To be a successful golfer you must not have running through your mind all the time the possibility of topping the ball or hitting the ground. To make these things practically impossible means practice. By practice I do not mean playing around the course. Now that machines have been invented not mean practice there is no excuse for anybody not doing it. It is not everybody who can erect a golf course on his own premises, and it is not always convenient to get a golf course to practice. One soon gets tired of hitting corks in the backyard.

Another thing which I have never been able to discover is why golfers hate to have themselves photographed.

If you are photographed in your own yard by your wife and the drug store man develops and prints your picture, nobody else need know anything about it.

It is a splendid lesson for you to see your faults.

PINK MITCHELL ON FIGHT CARD

Popular Milwaukee Boy
Heads Cream City Card
Friday With Jim Finley

Milwaukee—What looks like the best card of the open air boxing season will be held at Milwaukee Baseball park Friday night when Pinky Mitchell junior welter champion, meets Jimmy Finley of Louisville, in the feature event of the evening at 147 pounds.

Mitchell battled George Ward, eastern star, last Friday night at Jersey city, winning on a foul in the second round. Ward had a shade in the first round, but Pinky was beating him in the second round when the foul occurred that caused the referee to stop the bout and give Mitchell the verdict.

Pinky has a defeat by Finley to wipe out, having lost a newspaper verdict to the southern scrapper last spring at Cedar Rapids, Ia. If Pinky can wipe that out he will immediately set sail for Tommy Freeman and Pete Latzo.

On the same card is Jackie Nichols, the crack St. Paul, featherweight, against Joey Cien of Milwaukee.

Harry SuQuong, the Chinese flyweight champion, will battle Joey Weiss of Milwaukee in a six rounder.

Joe Azzarella, local Italian, will meet a new comer in the person of Danny Woods of Wausau. Woods formerly was in the navy and twice fought Jackie Fields on the coast and recently beat Frankie Burne at Ironwood, Mich.

Eddie Stacks of DePere, and Billy Besch of Milwaukee will furnish the opener at 165 pounds.

NEW HOME RUN KING IS SOLD TO DODGERS

Tyler—(P)—Big Moose Clabaugh, slugging left fielder of the Tyler club of the East Texas league, will join the Brooklyn Nationals as holder of a new home run record for organized baseball. He broke his own record here Monday when he clouted his sixty-second circuit drive in the final game of the league schedule.

Clabaugh hit his sixty-first homer Saturday to break the former record held by Tony Lazzeri of the New York Yankees, made when Tony was with the Salt Lake club of the Pacific Coast league. The Yankee player's mark was made in a 161-game schedule while the Moose played in 197 contests this year.

Clabaugh is to report to the Dodgers immediately. A native of Albany, Mo., he is 24 years old, stands six feet four inches and weighs 178

CARL MAYS HAVING BIG YEAR WITH CINCY REDS

Carl Mays, former American League pitcher, is having a great season with Cincinnati. The other day he turned in his fifth successive success. Mays has done more than a little to keep the Hendricks combination in the race.

VET LINEMAN IS BACK WITH BAYS

"Jug" Earpe, Five-year
Packer, Back to Play
Tackle or Center

Green Bay—Followers of the Green Bay Packers will welcome the news that "Jug" Earpe, veteran line man, has again signed his contract to play with the Big Bay Blues. This will be Earpe's fifth season with the Badger state champions.

Ever since Earpe joined the Packers just before the 0 to 0 Milwaukee game in 1922, he has given the club his best services. Jug is always regular as a clock for practice and he seldom has been on the shelf due to injuries. Earpe takes his football pretty seriously and there hasn't ever been a better team-worker on the Green Bay machine.

Jug is equally at home at either tackle or center. He played tackle in 1922 and '23. The following year saw him playing a whale of a game at center and last season he was one of the mainstays of the line at tackle. It is quite likely that Earpe will be moved back to the snapper-back's job this season as it is not probable that Ojay Larson, the Packer's 1925 center, will play any football on account of an injured knee that gave him considerable trouble last fall.

Earpe played his 'rah rah' football at Monmouth college, having three years of it. Following his graduation, he joined the Rock Island Independents and was with those huskies for two seasons before coming with the Bays. While at Rock Island, "Jug" held down the pivot post nearly all the time. Earpe is another Packer, who lives here the year round.

His professional career has been limited for the most part to Texas where he has played three years.

BUCS TAKE LEAD AS CARDS SPLIT

Hornsby's Lose One-day Lead to Benton's Skill; Reds Tie for 2nd

After a day at the peak of the National League, the St. Louis Cardinals were again in the wake of the world champion Pirates Wednesday. Cincinnati was tied with St. Louis for second place.

Larry Benton of the Braves flipped a paralyzing brand of baseball in the first game of a double header, with St. Louis. Only four singles glanced from the Cardinals bats. The Braves hit Sherdel enough to squeeze out a 2-1 victory.

St. Louis took the second game, 6 to 5. In the meantime the Pirates knocked out Burleigh Grimes and beat Brooklyn, 10 to 1. Ray Kremer, Pirate twirler, won his 14th victory of the season. Max Carey, former Buckner captain, could do nothing in his second appearance in Brooklyn territory.

The Reds beat the Giants 6 to 5. The Chicago Cubs showed no mercy to the tall end Phillies, taking a pair of games, 8-4, and 9-0. Wilson got behind one for his 19th homer of the season while Harnett batted two into the far reaches.

Rain stopped all but one contest in the American League. Rookie Crowder held St. Louis to three hits until the seventh and Washington beat back the Browns, 9 to 6. The Senators had an easy time with the punts of Ernie Nevers.

Frank Frisch, star second baseman and captain of the Giants, who left his team in St. Louis last Saturday because of illness plans to rejoin the club.

He says there is nothing to the story that he had a hot argument with McGraw.

Everett Scott, veteran shortstop, has been returned to the White Sox by Cincinnati.

Milwaukee maintained its lead as Association leader by defeating Toledo, 3-2. The three Milwaukee counts were home runs. The Louisville Colonels lost to Minneapolis, 5-4 putting them two and one-half games behind. St. Paul took a win from Indianapolis 6-2 in the shortest game of the Association season, 1:11. Kansas City playing at home took both games of a double header with Columbus, 4-1 and 3-2.
